About Our Code of Conduct

Albireo Energy and its subsidiaries (the "Company") are committed to conducting business with integrity, transparency, and respect for all stakeholders. Our Code of Conduct (Code) is an essential component of our strategic plan with principles outlined to assist and guide all Company employees in pursuits and efforts on behalf of the company. The Code works in conjunction with our Employee Handbook and all relevant policies and procedures. These policies ensure a positive workplace culture and fosters trust within our organization, with our customers, and the communities we serve.

Our Code is available to all Albireo Energy employees through our shared folder structure. It is embedded into our Learning Management System where new leaders and employees are required to review and certify when onboarding. As a supplement to the Code, we have specific policies on Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption, Anti-Trust, and Human Rights.

A supplemental and comprehensive data privacy and cybersecurity training curriculum is also mandatory for all leaders and employees. Specifics are outlined in our Data Privacy Public Policy.

Reporting and Governance

Reporting: Leaders and employees may report compliance concerns to their managers, directly to the CEO or Chief Human Resources Officer (CHRO), or through the Ethics Helpline. The Employee Ethics/Helpline is a secure resource that is hosted and staffed by Lighthouse/Syntrio, an independent reporting service that can take calls in most languages and is available toll-free 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Reports to the Employee Ethics/Helpline are submitted to the CHRO for disposition.

Reports to management or to the Employee Helpline may be made on a named basis or anonymously in jurisdictions (including the U.S.) where allowed by law. As it may be more difficult to thoroughly investigate anonymous reports, we encourage (but do not require) those reporting concerns to identify themselves.

Non-Retaliation: We prohibit and do not tolerate unlawful retaliation for raising questions or concerns or reporting actual or suspected violations, participating in or cooperating with an investigation, or refusing to participate in any violation of applicable law. We will not discharge, demote, suspend, discipline or otherwise treat adversely in any manner any employee who, in good faith, raises compliance questions or concerns or reports actual or suspected violations, even if we determine that there has been no violation. Anyone who retaliates in any way, directly or indirectly, or encourages others to retaliate against a “whistleblower” is subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination. Further details are outlined in our Code of Conduct.

Response and remedy: Our executive leadership team confidentially investigates and resolves any allegations of misconduct, including known or suspected violations of our Code of Conduct, internal policies, the law and other forms of misconduct.
